

"Well, I'm going to now," said Jim—and did. And Dolly did not care. For, when their friends had departed, she snuggled upon her husband's knee and they made up for it. (Copyright, 1916, W. G. Chapman.)

"UPWARD" TENDENCY IN FALL MILLINERY

The "Odette," one of the chic models in fall millinery. It is made of carbeau panne and rose trim. This design displays the "upward" trend of the new styles in hats.

SUGARLESS PEACHES

Select firm peaches of fine flavor. Peel and cut in halves. Put in preserving kettle, cover with boiling water and cook until tender. Sterilize the cans by placing them in bottle of cold water, bring water to boiling point and boil 15 minutes. Fill cans with the stewed fruit, add hot juice until cans overflow, and screw on tops and rubbers.

Invert cans over night. Apply melted paraffin to edge of covers, wrap each can separately in paper and store in a cool, dark place.

Pears, apples, plums, apricots and other large fruits may be canned in the same way.
